On behalf of Tyson Foods, thank you for all you're doing to help us supply safe, affordable, high quality food to our customers and consumers during this trying time for our country. I know how busy you are accommodating the changes in daily life, caring for your health and the health of those around you, while keeping your farms running smoothly.

You play a vital role in food production, which makes you part of the Critical Infrastructure needed to feed this country. That's why we are working quickly to ensure business continuity for you, from feed deliveries to bird pickups, thereby protecting your livelihood.

Please protect the health and safety of you and your family by practicing good hygiene and hand washing and avoiding travel and social gatherings.

While it's unknown how much COVID-19 will continue to spread or how long it will last, you can be assured that we will continue to adjust and adapt to address it. Please visit thefeed.blog/ to hear news and perspective from Tyson leaders. Know that we are committed to ensuring we can continue supplying safe, affordable, high quality food to our customers and consumers.

Thank you again for your dedication to our business, our customers, our consumers and the animals entrusted to your care.

Sincerely,

Chad
